Norfolk at Danville.
Portsmouth at Roanoke. Standing of the Clubs.

The Lawmakers beat Lynchburg yesterday, and the answer is that they hit when hits meant something. Long pitched the game for the home boys, and he held the visitors when they needed holding. Reiss, of Lynchburg, couldn't measure up, and the Lawmakers found him when they wanted to real badly.

found him when they wanted to real badly.

The score was four to one, with Sharfer's aggregation langing to the big end of the proposition, and the Grimites flirting with the one tally, which, by the way, was carned, and came in the third laning, after Relss had smacked one to right-center for three sacks and placed his tootsy wootsy on the rubber when Bowen singled.

Barring this inning, Long had the Hill Climbers looking dizzy. He had his underhand ball working to perfection, and his curves broke sharp and kept the Champions in a worry. Long also had a few spit balls that he handed out, and the saliva was working overtime.

e gave the "Champeens" five hits, these five were scattered; so that y didn't count for souch.

Reiss Gets Three-Bagger.

Reiss Gets Three-Bagger.

Reiss, for Lynchburg, pitched a fairy good game and was the cause of the only run that his team secured. He allowed eight hits, and the gave Long the unmerciful chill in the third inning, when he smacked one away for three sacks. Bowen's drive brought the curve-ologist scross the plate with the one tally, that saved the goose egg for the men who hail from the city where all is an un-hill tussle.

The Lawmakers scored their first run in the second inning, Cuddy planking his tiny little foot on the plate. Cuddy had previously knocked a two-bagger, and Slebrie, the new man from Gettysburg, sacrificed very nicely. Anthony did the ozone act, and Walsh whipped the ball down to third to catch Cuddy. The throw was wild, and the runner came in.

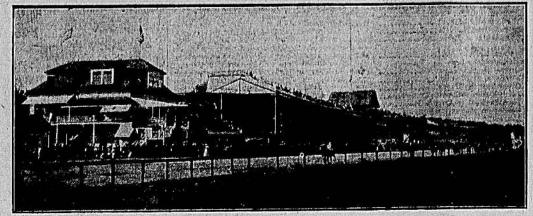

But the third inning was the one that gave the creepy feeling. Waish died to Cuddy, and Relss took three sacks on the one that he sent to the field. Daringer sent a Texas Leaguer to left, and Siebrle got under it, after a very good run. He showed that he knew the game in this play, and his work all through was worth the mentioning. Bowen, however, smacked one across third base that looked very close, and Relss came home. This was all for Lynchburg, for the other players went out in good fashion.

NORFOLK IS WALLOPED.

Danville Played All Around Them in the Game Yesterday.

A Decision Changed.

The baseball enthusiasis here saw for the first time Umpire Ike. Save in one instance, the handler of the indicator was good. But in the eighth inning he reversed his decision, and this is something that will always put an umpire to the bad. Hicks, who was on third, had started to the home plate, and according to those directly behind the catcher, he was safe at the rubber. The umpire called him gafe, and a minute later, when a protest was made by the Lynchburg players, Hicks was called out.

The play didn't change the result of the game in any way, but it showed that the umpire is unstable, in that he changed a decision made, and which should have held, whether it was right or wrong. Richmond is not the loser by his action, but he is the man who gets in left field, is an addition to the Richmond team that will help a great deal. He played a game yesterday that leaves no doubt as to his ability as a ball player. Drew and Griffin are the two other pitch.

To a fair start Cedarstrome set the pace, followed by Dandelion and Dolly Spanker. This order remained the same around the paddock turn and into the backstretch. Rounding the far turn, Dandelion, the favorite, took the lead. As the field swung into the stretch they were all in a bunch, but when straightened for the run to the wire Go Between and Dandelion drew away, Both boys, Miller, on Dandelion, and Shaw, on Go Between, sat down to ride with hands and heel, and in desperate drive Bhaw landed Go Between a winner, completely outriding Miller. The Old Skinflint.

Several years are, when Powell & Plimpton kept a drug and grocery house on Washington Street, in Buffalo, says the Buffalo Times, a farmer from Williamsville drove to Buffalo to buy a bill of goods for his country store. After coming downstairs and waiting for his goods to be packed, he noticed several men using the speaking tube. After a while his curiosity got the better of him, and he asked the proprietor what that thing was. "Aspeaking tube," said the proprietor. "Speak to some one upstairs and see how it works."

"What will I say?" said the farmer, going over to the tube.

Eggs as Prepared in Georgia.

When a traveler stopped for luncheon at a small railway eating house in Georgia, says a writer in the Atlanta Constitution, a diminutive colored boy, covered with some threa feet of soiled apron, appeared and in none too gentle a tone announced that the bill of fare was ham, eggs, cornbread and coffee.

After due deliberation the traveler said he would like some ham, eggs, cornbread and coffee.

Such a pretentious order for one person staggered the small waiter momentarily. But he soon recovered, and as he started toward the kitchen he said: "How'll yer hab dem eggs, boss, blind or lookin' at yer?"

"Lookin' at me," replied the traveler, feeling sure that eggs that were turned over would be ilkely to be cooked toolong to be either palatable or whole-some.
